Verify Cash Drawer

The beginning balance is the amount of cash in the drawer at the start of a work period that enables the employee to make change for customers. Employee must understand that all cash above this beginning balance at the end of the work period is cash added to the drawer from sales. When an employee receives a cash drawer at the beginning of a shift, this drawer is the sole responsibility of the employee -- no other employees other than managers will have access to the drawer. The employee must verify the balance of the cash drawer at the start of the shift, in the presence of a manager, before any transactions occur.

Counting Back Policy

Employees must always count change verbally to customers. Counting money back is an effective practice for minimizing mistakes. The practice of making change and counting it back involves starting at the total cash owed and counting up to the amount tendered by the customer.

How to Make Change

Employees should take the cash from the customer and place it on the cash register while pulling change from the drawer. Count up from the cash owed using coins to reach an even dollar amount, then continue counting up to reach the amount of cash sitting on the cash register. For example, if the cash owed is $21.45 and the customer gives $30.00, the employee must set the $30.00 where it is visible to the customer on the cash register, then remove from the drawer one nickel to reach $21.50, two quarters to reach $22.00, three $1 bills to reach $25.00, and one $5 to reach $30.00.

How to Count Back

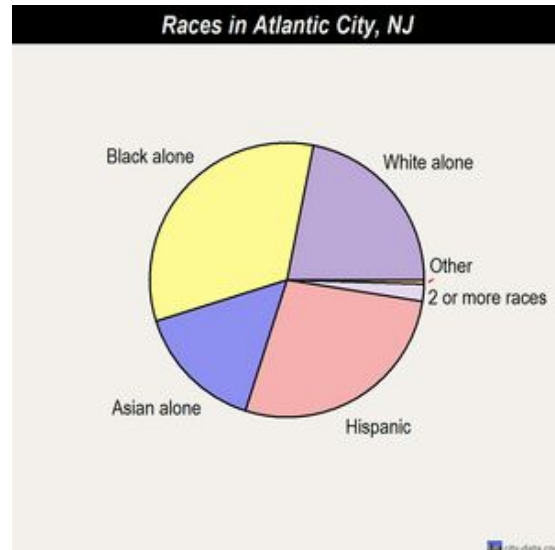

After removing the correct change from the drawer, the employee must insert the cash tendered and close the cash drawer. The employee must then count the change back to the customer to ensure accuracy. Using the same example, the employee would say, "$21.45, $21.50 (place nickel in customer's hand), $22.00 (place quarters in customer's hand), $23.00, $24.00, $25.00 (place $1 bills in customer's hand), and $30.00 (place $5 in customer's hand)." After counting back the change, the employee must hand the customer the receipt.

Balance Drawer

After an employee's shift ends, the employee has the responsibility to balance the drawer. This involves counting the total amount of cash in the drawer, adding check, credit, and debit transactions, and recording everything on a special balance sheet. Using the beginning balance, the total sales that occurred during the shift, and the ending balance, the cash drawer should total correctly.

Atlantic City Disclaimer

Participants should be aware Atlantic City is a melting pot, with 26 million visitors a year. You will come into contact with all kinds of people and ways of life. All ages, shapes and sizes, levels of wealth, backgrounds, religions, sexual preferences, and ethnicities.

Participants who choose Atlantic City, NJ should have the experience and knowledge necessary to deal with the potential dangers of life in an urban environment. Atlantic City's 26 million visitors a year attract pickpockets. Participants should use common sense, stay with a partner or friend while walking a night and never carry valuables.

Housing in Atlantic City ranges from $85 - $100 per participant, per week. Typically, landlords will require a security deposit on arrival. This security deposit helps to insure landlords can protect themselves from any loss. Including utility bills: electricity, water, & natural gas. Participants who decide to leave their housing prior to the end of their program will NOT see any portion of their security deposit returned.

Program Coordinators can not negotiate the return of deposits, unless participants have completed the full contract and no damage has occurred.

No job, or hours at a job, can be 100% guaranteed. Regardless of what your work contract states, there is always a possibility that you will work more or less hours. Participants should expect to have lower hours during the first two weeks of training.

Some days will be slower than others. It is common practice in United States restaurants for employees to be sent home early if business does not allow for a full staff.

Tips for obtaining hours: The concept of time plays a great role in American culture. Late once or twice may be unavoidable but being late consistently makes you unreliable. Employers are looking for participants who are on time and come to work as scheduled. These participants will be sure to have 32 hours or more, with the best shifts and weekly hours.

Second jobs are available in Atlantic City.. Second jobs must be approved by CHI before starting work. The second job offer will be provided in your welcome letter. Your CHI program coordinator will be available to help you with this process. Please note, your second job can not conflict with your primary job. If you have a conflict, your primary employer cannot guarantee 32 hours.

Participants who accept the position at Johnny Rockets must not have any food allergies. Participants must be physically able push, pull, and lift 15 kgs. Participants must be able to work with pork. Participants must be willing to clean and remove rubbish.

FOOD ALLERGIES
